General enquiries should be directed to the MSc Taxation Administrative Assistant at:

Dybisz

Anyone may join our mailing list by sending an email to visiting academics, Faculty members and graduate students to present their work

The New MSc in Taxation Students chapter).

The IBFD Observatory on the Protection of Taxpayers Rights is looking for:

If you would like to audit any of the below courses, please email

Places will be confirmed on first come, first served basis.

Bunching differs across sectors, with the average firm shifting turnover between 4,350

The evidence suggests that VAT evasion (defined as the presence of VAT-able businesses whether these responses are real of a driven by evasion behaviour. It also investigates businesses' bunching responses to the VAT registration threshold. Importantly, it focuses consisting of the universe of administrative filings in Bulgaria, this paper investigates results have important implications for the progressivity of VAT and the efficiency of consumers to switch to informal varieties, shifting out informal sector demand. The net increases in the tax rate faced by their formal counterparts. This is due to two first channel, we show that prices faced by consumers of informal firms increase upon sector. This paper investigates theoretically and empirically the pass-through of VAT to

Abstract

Warwick Taxation and migration by the super-rich

All talks will be on Zoom at 11:00 Eastern time/4:00 UK/5:00 CET. Presenters instructions.

the events pages, where you will find more details including joining

The presenters for 2022-23 are:

Oxford University Centre for Business Taxation (Michael Devereux and John

These conundrums invite rethinking of the governance of international

Legal scholars of international taxation increasingly focus on considerations of

The Health Wedge

The Big Short (Interest): Closing the Loopholes in

Our daughter Elisabeth Elektra was born