

The Oxford Empirical Legal Studies discussion group would kindly like to invite you to an explorative academic workshop on

Digital Justice in Platform Governance – Content Moderation, Co-creation and Participation

at St Peter’s College, Miles Room, on 6 March 2020, 10am-1pm

Modern work and social media are increasingly dominated by algorithm-based decision-making. Platforms inhabit a powerful position to design and mediate the relationship between employers and workers, online service providers, and users. How does platform governance affect Digital Justice? Can content moderation, co-creation and participatory design mitigate adverse effects on workers, customers, and user? Which governing structures are evolving through empirical research? How do affected individuals adapt to emerging patterns?

This academic workshop explores interdependencies between existing regulatory frameworks and emerging business dynamics.

Organisers:

Felix Pflücke, Faculty Law, University of Oxford

Isabel Ebert, University of St. Gallen & visiting researcher Oxford Internet Institute

10.00	Welcome
10.15-11.15  Access to Justice through Content Moderation	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Systemic Unfairness, Access to Justice and Futility - A Framework, Jeremias Adams-Prassl (University of Oxford),</li> <li>• Thoughts on Pricing Algorithms, Julian Nowag (Lund University and University of Oxford),</li> <li>• Platform Governance through Private Regulation: Debunking the (Legal) Limits of Content Moderation, Felix Pflücke (University of Oxford),</li> <li>• Applying Computer Science Methods to Detect Consumer Protection Violations, Catalina Goanta (Maastricht University)</li> </ul> Discussant: Nikita Aggarwal (University of Oxford)
11.15-11.30	Coffee break
11.30-12.30  Multi-disciplinary Perspectives on Platform Governance	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Survival Strategies in the Gig Economy, Funda Ustek Spilda (FairWork Foundation)</li> <li>• Predators, Prey, and the Imagined Algorithm: How Freelancers make sense of the Digital Platform, Christian Fieseler (Bi Norwegian Business School)</li> <li>• Responsibility &amp; Trust in AI in the News Industry, Felix M. Simon, Journalist &amp; Leverhulme Scholar (University of Oxford)</li> <li>• Agency of Workers – Imaginaries in the Finance, Insurance and Logistics Industry, Isabel Ebert (University of St. Gallen)</li> </ul> Discussant: Siân Brooke (University of Oxford)
12.30-12.45	Concluding remarks & open discussion
12.45	Farewell
1.00pm	Light lunch & get-together